Minor in Film Studies

Major in Film: See Art History: Film Emphasis

The film studies minor is an interdisciplinary and interdepartmental program that analyzes the history, theory, and practice of film in the larger context of humanistic studies. Students will study a broad range of film texts, from the classic narrative to abstractionist and experimental, and learn to appreciate the aesthetics and filmmaking practices of both Western and non-Western cultures. While exploring the medium's connection with several disciplines and art forms, students will also become familiar with the phases of film production and learn to approach film and the cinema in a critical and analytic manner. The film studies minor offers students a flexible curriculum that complements several existing major degree programs in the humanities and constitutes excellent supplementary preparation for a number of careers. In consultation with the program coordinator, students can design a minor with an emphasis relevant to their academic and career objectives.

Minor in Film Studies

The minor consists of a minimum of 18 semester units distributed among a core (9 units) and a choice of electives (9 or more units).

Minor Electives

Students may complete the film studies minor by choosing additional courses in film history or three courses within any one of the following four options. Because of rare or one-time offerings in film studies throughout the University, this list of electives is not comprehensive. In light of this and the variations of scheduling throughout the disciplines, students are advised to work closely with one of the faculty advisors listed above in order to insure progress in the minor.

Film and Literature Option

These courses study different aspects of the complex relationship between film and literature: the role of screenwriting in the process of film production, the problems of adaptation, the comparative study of literary and filmic texts, and the special contribution that literary analysis has made to the study of film.
